

InsureCan Inc.'s Lost Life Insurance Policy Services Agreement Terms

How our process works

Once we have received written consent from the Primary Applicant and the Named Beneficiaries listed in InsureCan Inc.'s Agency Agreement, we will:

1. send the Primary Applicant an email message to confirm our acceptance of the Application Package and our agreement to perform the services;
2. contact each of the life insurers (companies) listed in Schedule "A" with our search inquiries;
3. attempt to determine whether the Deceased had a life insurance policy in force (meaning all the premiums were properly paid up to date and the policy had not lapsed) as at the date of death;
4. attempt to determine whether the Primary Applicant and Named Beneficiaries are beneficiaries of the Deceased's life insurance policy, if one exists; and
5. provide the Primary Applicant with a report that lists each life insurer's response. It is entirely up to the Primary Applicant to advise each Named Beneficiary of the results of our report.

What happens if one of the life insurers contacted locates a life insurance policy in force?

"Yes" response:

- o If a life insurer contacted by InsureCan finds a policy with a named beneficiary that matches a Named Beneficiary who has signed our Agency Agreement (attached), then we will notify the Primary Applicant and provide the life insurance company's contact information so that the Primary Applicant can independently proceed with the potential claim solely on his or her own accord.

"No" response:

There is no policy in force, or

- o If no policy exists for the Deceased, the insurance company's response will be a simple "No" and this will be set out in the report that we will provide.

There is a policy in force but no Named Beneficiary listed in the Agency Agreement matches.

- o If a life insurance policy is found, and none of the Named Beneficiaries who have signed the Agency Agreement are beneficiaries of the particular policy, then the insurance company will simply answer "No".
- o The insurer will answer "No" to comply with privacy laws and the insurer's own privacy policies. This is why it is important to have all the potential beneficiaries (next of kin) listed. You should be aware that, owing to privacy laws, insurance companies will only disclose the existence of an insurance policy to someone who is a beneficiary named in the policy or to someone who has legal standing for the Deceased's estate such as an executor named in a probated will.
- o Note that life insurance companies will only disclose the existence of an in force policy to a deceased's executors or their authorized representatives (lawyers) acting for the estate if the named beneficiary of a life insurance policy is the Deceased's estate as opposed to a particular individual.
- o As a result of our process, however, the insurance company will now be aware there may be a claim for the Deceased under one of its policies and the insurer will attempt to contact all of the beneficiaries named in its policy. As a result, this process is a great method for executors to flush out any life insurance policies for the Deceased.

Who should sign the Agency Agreement to give consent to InsureCan's search?

In order to increase the likelihood of the contacted insurance companies confirming the existence of a life policy if one exists, it is best to have all potential beneficiaries sign the Agency Agreement as well as the executor for the Deceased's estate who is typically the Primary Applicant.

At a minimum, we recommend that surviving spouses, children, and grandchildren by their parents/guardians, and the Deceased's executor should sign our Agency Agreement. Anyone who could reasonably have a good faith belief that he or she may be a beneficiary should sign the Agency Agreement as a Named Beneficiary.

What types of insurance policies can I search for?

Typically, insurance companies will only search their records for individual life insurance policies. This may exclude group or affinity insurance policies where the deceased is not the policy owner and policies held by in the name of former employers. We only search for life insurance policies and not other forms of insurance coverage.

Under no circumstances do we provide searches if the insured has not deceased.

Our Fees and Services

Our fee for this service is $300.00 plus 13% HST for a total of $339.00 and our services are provided in every province of Canada except Quebec.

Our service is limited to contacting the life insurance companies listed in Schedule "A" and provision of a report with each life insurance company's response.

Our service does not guarantee any specific action on the part of the insurance companies or outcome, including responding to our request or following-up if a policy is found. We cannot control the insurance companies. Our service does not guarantee that a policy will be found even if one may exist with the insurance companies that we have contacted.

For Primary Applicants who are not named beneficiaries of the life insurance policy

(executors and lawyers acting for the Deceased's estate)

- Please complete and sign the Agency Agreement as the Primary Applicant whom InsureCan should exclusively contact and deal with in connection to our services.
- Ensure that you have provided us with valid ID and proof that you are the executor or lawyer acting for the Deceased's estate.
- Ensure that you include the Deceased's date of birth, SIN number, and a copy of the death certificate. We are unable to proceed without this information.
- We recommend that you have as many family members as possible sign the Agency Agreement, including children, grandchildren, and surviving spouses as potential Named Beneficiaries. For children or grandchildren who are minors (under 18), the parent or legal guardian must consent and sign on behalf of the minor child or grandchild. If the beneficiary is not the estate and instead solely a Named Beneficiary, we are not able to notify you if a policy is found unless that Named Beneficiary has signed our Agency Agreement and thereby expressly consented to permit the insure to disclose the existence of a life policy to InsureCan and for InsureCan to disclose the same to the Primary Applicant.

For Primary Applicants who are potential Beneficiaries of the Deceased (family members):

- Please sign the Agency Agreement if you agree to consent and give us authority to act on your behalf as the Primary Applicant and for the other Named Beneficiaries. We will only take instructions from the Primary Applicant and report to the Primary Applicant.
- Make sure to include the Deceased's date of birth, SIN number, and a copy of the death certificate. We are unable to proceed without this information. Note: if you do not provide us with complete and accurate information, an incorrect "No" response from the life insurer will result even if a policy may exist.
- We recommend that you have as many family members as possible sign the agreement, including children and grandchildren and surviving spouses. For children or grandchildren who are minors (under 18), the parent or legal guardian must consent and sign on behalf of the child or grandchild. If the beneficiary is not the estate but is instead another signing party, we are then able to notify you if a policy is found.

InsureCan Inc. Agency and Consent Agreement

This Agency Agreement is between InsureCan Inc., a provincially incorporated Ontario company with offices at 225 Eby Crescent, New Hamburg, Ontario N3A 1Y9 ("InsureCan") and the parties named in the attached Schedule "A" listed as the Primary Applicant and Named Beneficiaries (collectively the "Applicants") all of which is incorporated into and is part of this Consent Agreement.

For greater certainty, InsureCan, its directors, officers, employees and agents will not provide any insurance products or advice of any kind in relation to this informational service under the InsureCan Lost Life Insurance Policy Terms or at any other time unless expressly agreed in writing between all parties. Your Authorization and Consent

The Applicants listed in Schedule "A" jointly and severally declare and agree that:

This personal information includes, but is not limited to, the name, social insurance number and death certificate of the deceased, and any other necessary information related to inquiring parties and potential beneficiaries;

- o We understand that due to privacy concerns, if an in force policy is found where none of the parties to this agreement are beneficiaries of the identified life policy, then the insurance company holding that policy will respond that "No policy is found";
- o We understand that only certain listed insurance companies will be contacted and there may be insurance companies that InsureCan does not contact which hold an in force insurance policy and that the insurance companies contacted are under no obligation to respond to InsureCan's requests, and some Insurance companies may not to respond despite InsureCan's request; and
- o Each of the executors for the estate of the Deceased, lawyers for the estate of the Deceased, and those Named Beneficiaries have a good faith belief that the Name Beneficiaries and the estate, as the case may be, may be beneficiaries of life insurance policy of the Deceased. The Applicants further declared and certify that the Applicant is unconditionally authorized to act on behalf of the Deceased's estate or has an insurable interest in the Deceased's estate or life insurance policy. Each party waives all rights to privacy with respect to other Applicants and InsureCan and agrees that this is a business transaction and not a consumer transaction.

InsureCan will only act as the Applicant's authorized agent solely for the limited purpose and time set out in the Application Agreement concerning the life insurance policy search and no other relationship in law or equity can exist between the parties. Mr. Glenn Cooke acts exclusively as an employee of the Company, which is a mere nominee of the applicant that hired the Company. Mr. Cooke does not act in his personal capacity or any other capacity. At all material times, all liability and risk remains exclusively with the applicant who has agreed to absolutely indemnify the Company and Mr. Cooke for which the applicant's assent is signified by voluntarily electing to accept the Company's offer to perform the insurance policy search for the stated price without any guarantee of any particular result by submission of the completed Application Package to InsureCan.

The Applicant is solely responsible and liable for any error or omission contained in the Application Package, including mis-spellings of the deceased's legal name, and the content of replies provided by the insurers. In consideration for InsureCan reviewing and considering the Applicant's Application Package, the Applicant hereby irrevocably and absolutely releases the InsureCan and its directors, employees, agents, shareholders from any claims, whether in contract, tort or founded in equity arising directly or indirectly at any time.
